COLUMBIA, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY JUNE 21, 1921

NUMBER 35

Death of Mr. Clay Suddarth.

The subject of this writing was a son of Gen. S. G. and Nannie Suddarth, and was born in Columbia about 63 years ago. Here he lived with his parents until he was about fourteen years old, going to Frankfort with his father and mother soon after Thos. E. Bramlette was elected Governor, his father having been appointed Adjutant General of the State. Later his mother died, and some years after the war the remainder of the family removed to Illinois, and later located at Evansville, Ind., where the father died, leaving three sons, Clay, Tyler and James. The boys drifted, Tyler dying in Carthage, Mo. Clay was with Tyler when he died, but James had returned to this county and was living with his aunt, Mrs. James Squires, on a farm, which he inherited and where Clay died last Thursday night, June 16.

The deceased was a victim of inflammatory rheumatism, and was afflicted ten or twelve years. He lived with his brother, James, where he received the kindest treatment, his every wish being gratified. He was a great reader and kept himself well posted in National affairs, and was an ardent Democrat. He was a man for whom every body had the utmost respect, and although he was helpless his passing brought tender emotions to many hearts. The writer knew him in boyhood and in manhood and knew that he entertained principles of the highest ideals. We played marbles, ball, and went swimming together in our earlier days, and we at all times found him to be a most desirable associate. He was ready for the call, and those who were the closest to him should not grieve, but rejoice that he is now free from a malady that human skill could not relieve.

Besides his brother, James, he leaves three uncles, Judge H. C. Baker, this place, Charles Baker, Burkesville, and J. B. Baker, of North Dakota, who recently visited the deceased, and one nephew, Sam Suddarth, and several cousins.

The interment was Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Murray graveyard, a large circle of friends being present. Rev. L. J. B. Smith was the officiating minister.

Shocked by Lightning.

Mrs. Frank Cooley, who is a daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. R. A. Hutchison, was terribly shocked by lightning last Friday. She was at the home of her parents, nursing her child when the bolt came. She was knocked to the floor, losing the use of one arm and one leg, but she had greatly improved Saturday morning. Her baby was not hurt, nor her mother, her mother being in the same room.

Lost.

Between Ella and Eunice, a gold open face, watch Seth Thomas works. Two fobs, one sea shell, the other a celluloid with six glass sets. I will pay a reward to the finder.

Has Won Out.

Mr. Rollin B. Patton, who is a Republican candidate for Tax Commissioner, has won out in a race he started more than a year ago.

About that time he commenced paying his respects to Miss Latitia Paul, a popular young lady, a daughter of Mrs. Lena Paul, this place, and for months the couple have been very devoted, and it was generally predicted that they would eventually get married.

Last Wednesday, armed with the proper document, they, in company with Mr. Edwin Hutchison and Miss Eva Walker motored to the residence of Eld. Z. T. Williams, who in a very impressive manner, pronounced the ceremony that made them man and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left to spend a few days in Louisville. Upon their return they went to the home of the bride's mother where they will reside for the present.

The groom is a young man who was reared in the Breeding settlement, and has been well acquainted in Columbia where he was partially educated. He is full of energy, ready to do what his hands find to do.

The bride is one of Columbia's most popular young ladies, and her friends are glad she has been wedded to the gentleman of her choice.

If the groom is as successful in his race for tax commissioner as he was in his matrimonial contest, he will be crowned another winner on the first Saturday in August.

The ball game at this place, last Friday, was a one-sided affair. Jamestown came down and engaged the Columbia boys, quite a number witnessing the contest. The game closed, Columbia having 14 scores and the visitors five. The Jamestown team is made up of nine fine young men, and they took their defeat in the best of grace.

Died at Glasgow.

Mr. Simon Goodman, who was a prominent business man of Glasgow, a Hebrew who located in that town many years ago, died last Tuesday afternoon. He was about seventy five years old and was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Sam Lewis, this place. Heart inaction was the cause of his demise. He was a man who stood well in his adopted town and he will be greatly missed in the business affairs of Glasgow. He had some acquaintances in Columbia, having occasionally visited here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and son, Alvin, left Wednesday morning to attend the funeral, which was held in Louisville.

Prognosticating.

This paper will have no vote in the coming primary unless a Democrat should submit his candidacy for position. However, we think we can tell who will be the winners for district offices. Here is our guess. Judge Carter will carry every county in his race for renomination for Circuit Judge, and that Huddleston will carry four out of the five for Commonwealth's Attorney. Mr. Smith, one of his opponents, will carry Monroe, the county in which he lives, but Mr. Huddleston will receive a respectable vote in that county.

Attention of parties, who are in control, to the condition of the Campbellsville pike from Columbia to the Taylor county line. It is in a fearful condition at many places along the route, and metal should be on and crushed. Adair county agreed to keep up this end of the pike, and she should do it. The toll money could be used, and it would help wonderfully in putting on metal. Mr. Gowdy keeps his end in good condition, winter and summer.

THE NEW DISEASE.

REDDY FOX, as everyone knows, is a very clever fellow. He gets his living by his wits as well as his courage.

One day while Reddy was eating his dinner out of his bright tinplate he happened to notice that as he moved it he made little flashes of bright light, for the sun was shining right on it.

Reddy Fox always thinks a great deal, and while he was throwing the light about the room he was thinking how he could use it to his advantage, meaning how he could play some trick on some one in a way that would get him something.

"I believe I can do it," he suddenly exclaimed, jumping up in such a hurry that he upset his chair. Then he washed his tin plate and, taking it under his arm, he hurried out of the house.

Mr. Coon had a pantry filled with things that Reddy Fox liked, but Mr. Coon had not invited him to dinner once this long time, and now Reddy intended to get what he wanted without being invited.

Mr. Coon was sitting on his steps and Reddy had the tin plate under his coat. "You don't look well, Mr. Coon," he said. "Are you sick?"

"Now that you mention it," said Mr. Coon, "I believe I do feel rather poorly, and I don't think I ate as much breakfast as usual."

That night, after Mr. Coon had run away for a change of climate, he suddenly discovered, while running, that he was feeling very well and not at all ill.

"I guess I was not as sick as I thought, after all," he said. "I believe I will go back home, and if I have a second spell of flashes I can go away for good, for Reddy Fox said the third attack was the danger point."

It was moonlight when Mr. Coon came to the path that led to his house in the woods, and as he came to the brush where Reddy Fox had hidden his bright tin plate Mr. Coon saw something glisten.

"That looks like Reddy Fox's plate," said Mr. Coon. "Now I wonder how it happened to be here. Anyway, finding it is keeping in the woods, and I need a new plate."

When he reached his house he was surprised to hear deep breathing coming from his bedroom, and not wishing to get into any trouble, Mr. Coon climbed in the pantry window.

He was sitting on the sill listening, when the moonlight streaming in showed him two empty shelves.

Mr. Coon stared, then he scratched his head, and then he listened, and then he looked at the tin plate.

By that time he had come to the conclusion that Reddy Fox had played a trick on him.

Whether Reddy Fox ever knew who was to blame for his fright Mr. Coon never knew, but when one day Reddy stopped to speak to Mr. Coon and found him eating his dinner from a tin plate he did not let on he noticed it.

It was a long time after this that Mr. Coon discovered about the flashes. He was eating his dinner, and having made his tin plate very clean by eating all that was on it, he picked it up, and the sun striking it made little flashes round the room.

"Oh," said Mr. Coon, "that was the way he did it. Well, I don't see but what I got the best of it, for I have a nice bright plate and he has nothing to show for his trouble."

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN HE CALLS.

Practice in time becomes second nature.

—Anon.

IN A MOTION picture recently produced, the charming young actress impersonating a New York society girl receiving the call of one of her men friends takes the caller's hat and coat from him as he enters the hall. Now as a matter of fact no girl who knew social usage would do that. Of course, if the man were aged or otherwise too feeble to dispose of them himself, she would. Otherwise, if there is no servant at hand to take them from him, the young woman would simply show him where the hatrack was located. A young man caller need not be asked by his hostess to remove his coat. If a maid comes to the door he should remove his coat in the hall after he has taken off his hat and give them to the maid or hang them on the hatrack before going into the reception room or drawing room. If the young woman receives a caller in a sitting room above stairs he should leave his outer things in the downstairs hall before ascending.

The American girl should always extend her hand to the young man caller when he calls, if he has asked to see her. It was an old-time courtesy always to say "Pray be seated," or something of that sort, and the young man did not take a seat until he had been so requested. Now, however, we do not stand on such formality. The young man takes a seat after his hostess has been seated, but he avoids taking the most comfortable chair in the room.

The question is often asked by young women as to whether young men should be given refreshments when they call. If they come in the afternoon about four or five it is customary in large towns to serve tea, which the hostess dispenses from a tea table in the drawing room or living room. Of course, with the majority of young men, an afternoon call is an impossibility and all their calling is done in the evening. Now hospitality does not require any refreshments for the evening call; but, especially if the young man has expressed his intentions of coming a certain night, or if there are to be several callers, plan some light refreshments. In some families it is customary to have some sort of light refreshment toward the close of the evening anyway, and then it is hospitable to ask any callers who happen to be present to partake.

Now, here is something that every young man ought to bear in mind, and that is that his leave-taking should be brief. Having risen to depart, he should show decision of character and poise enough after bidding his hostess and others who may be present good-night, to go away at once. "ut often extremely young men, though they may be willing enough to leave, seem to be quite unable to do this. Of course this dallying is often the fault of those on whom they are calling, who open new topics of conversation just as they are departing, and make it difficult for them to leave at once. This also shows a certain lack of social poise.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"HEALTHY" AND "HEALTHFUL."

THERE is a distinct difference in the meaning of these two words, and the distinction should be made by all who desire to speak and write correctly. "Healthy" means possessing or enjoying health or its effects; as, "a healthy person" or "a healthy condition." But "healthful" means promoting health, or adding to it, or preserving it. Thus, we say that a healthy person is the product of healthful surroundings. "The finances of the country are in a healthy condition." "Healthful living is conducive to length of life."

A correspondent of a newspaper wrote, "Are plants in a sleeping room healthy?" It was evident that she meant, "Does the presence of plants in a sleeping room affect the health of the occupant of the room?" Of course, a plant, in a sleeping room or elsewhere, may or may not be healthy; and its presence in a room may or may not be healthful for the human occupant.

CODES OF LAW.

THE earliest attempt at codifying laws was the famous code of Hammurabi, about 2000 B. C. This antedated even the Commandments given by Moses. It was very complete, covering nearly every contingency. The Greeks and Romans had codified laws, the most famous being the Julian and Augustan codes. The Napoleonic code, famous in its time, still survives at the present day.

BURLEY 'SIGN-UP' STARTS IN RUSH

Big Growers First To Join As 1,395,600 Pounds Are Pledged First Day

DRIVE NOW IN BLUEGRASS

Carrollton, Ky., June 4.—Growers of more than 1,395,600 pounds of burley tobacco signed the contract of the proposed Co-operative Burley Tobacco Marketing Association, at the opening meeting of the active sign-up campaign here today.

Acres represented by the signatures was more than 1,400, with an average production of about 1,000 pounds to the acre. Two hundred and thirty-five growers signed the contract. Many more were forced to go home without having an opportunity to sign, on account of lack of clerks to attend to them.

Growers from three counties in Indiana and four in Kentucky were among those who bound themselves by the provisions of the five-year contract of the association.

Three farm organizations in Carroll County made the day a special one for their members, and held special meetings on preceding days to urge them to sign the contract immediately. The Farmers' Union was represented by 70 per cent of its members. Approximate figures indicated that the percentage of the Farm Bureau was about the same. The Eureka, a secret society of farmers, had held special meetings to bring the benefits of the plan before its members.

Signing began with the arrival of the first printed contracts from Louisville, and continued all morning without interruption. By noon more than 150 growers had signed, and others were crowding to the tables faster than clerks could prepare the papers for signature.

Curtis Montgomery, Ghent, Ky., was the first grower to sign the contract. He is one of the largest producers of Carroll County, and owns about 600 acres of land suitable for raising tobacco. He stayed in Carrollton all night in order to have the opportunity to sign first.

Despite the fact that a rain the night before the meeting had made a perfect tobacco setting season, hundreds of farmers dismissed the chance in order to attend the "sign-up." By 10 o'clock in the morning, the square around the courthouse, where the signing was in progress, was crowded with farmers and their families. A constant stream continued to pour into the town during the entire morning and early afternoon, as the districts more remote from the town sent in their contingents.

At noon, after the arrival of Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville, chief speaker of the day, and chairman of the organization committee of the proposed association, a procession of growers, headed by a band and a group of growers who had signed the contract, marched from the courthouse to the scene of the barbecue and burgoo feast and the afternoon speaking. It is estimated that 2,000 farmers took part. In addition to these Mr. had $500 ahead on foot and in cars.

Following the burgoo feast at 1:30 o'clock, Judge Bingham addressed the crowd in one of the town's warehouses. Ralph M. Barker, member of the organization committee, in introducing Judge Bingham, read a telegram from M. O. Wilson, campaign secretary of the association being formed by Virginia and Carolina growers, expressing congratulations and good wishes.

Prolonged applause was given Judge Bingham's prediction that an adequate co-operative association law would be readily passed by the next session of the Kentucky legislature.

At the conclusion of Judge Bingham's address, James C. Stone, Lexington, member of the organization committee, speaking as a representative of the growers of the Bluegrass, thanked the growers of this section for the impetus they had given the campaign, and assured them that the growers of his section would not be slow to follow the example. He said that without exception every man he had consulted in regard to the formation of the proposed association, had been in favor of the movement without reserve.

Other meetings at which the contract of the association will be offered to the growers for signatures will be held the week of June 13, at Shelbyville, Lexington, Maysville, Danville, Richmond, Cynthiana and possibly other points. Aaron Sapiro, attorney for twenty-two California co-operative associations and considered to be one of the greatest authorities on co-operative agriculture in the world, will address these meetings.

The following names were announced as members of the organization committee:

Judge Bingham, Louisville; Mr. Barker, Carrollton; Edward Bassett, Desha Breckinridge, Harry Giovannoli, Shelby T. Harbison, Charles N. Manning, William A. McDowell, Dr. Frank L. McVey, James C. Knue, McQuady; N. C. Ridgeway, Falmouth, and W. A. Clements, Springfield.

Judge Robert W. Bingham, chairman; W. E. Simms, Versailles; John T. Collins, Paris; James C. Stone, Lexington, and Ralph M. Barker, Carrollton.

The enlargement of the committee marks the first step of the movement to spread the organization to the individual counties. This will be continued as quickly as possible by the appointment of local chairmen and committees, to organize each county. At this date, Lexington and Richmond are the only centers which have been completely organized, but others are expected to do so during the next two weeks.

The function of the Organization Committee as it exists at present is to perfect machinery in each district to carry the contract of the association to the individual grower. This contract was offered to the growers for the first time at Carrollton June 4. At this time more than 1,395,600 pounds were signed up for the association.

The contract will be offered to the growers at meetings the week of June 13, which will be addressed by Aaron Sapiro and Judge Bingham. It is probable that from the points where Mr. Sapiro is to speak organization will spread.

Bankers, growers and other leaders in each community interested in the welfare of the growers hold meetings this week with Mr. Stone and Joseph Passonneau, organization manager, to explain the details of the co-operative plan and to arrange reception for Mr. Sapiro's meeting.

It is expected that in the next two weeks county organizations will be perfected and the active Sign-Up campaign brought home to every grower.

Demands Harvey Be Recalled.

Ambassador Harvey, from whose name the title of colonel appears to have been dropped since Congressman Stevenson asserted in the House that it was given to him at a banquet, has received another severe castigation in the Senate, this time by Senator McKellar (Dem., Tenn.) who said, among other things, concerning the statements in Ambassador Harvey's speech at the Pilgrims Society dinner:

"They constitute a libel against the Government of the United States. They constitute a desertion of nearly one hundred thousand young men who gave up their lives on the battlefields of France. They are an insult to every one of the nearly 5,000,000 soldiers who enlisted in that great conflict. They constitute a wanton libel upon the patriotic men and women of this country. They are the words of a craven and a scoundrel. . . . He (Harvey) is not a fit representative of either our government or its people. I protest against his being retained, and I again express the earnest and patriotic hope that our President will recall him immediately. Protests against Mr. Harvey are coming in from patriotic men and wo-

IS YOUR HEALTH GRADUALLY SLIPPING?

Interesting Experience of a Texas Lady Who Declares That if More Women Knew About Cardui They Would Be Spared Much Sickness and Worry.

Navasota, Texas.—Mrs. W. M. Peden, of this place, relates the following interesting account of how she recovered her strength, having realized that she was actually losing her health:

"Health is the greatest thing in the world, and when you feel that gradually slipping away from you, you certainly sit up and take notice. That is what I did some time ago when I found myself in a very nervous, run-down condition of health. I was so tired and felt so lifeless I could hardly go at all.

"I was just no account for work. I would get a bucket of water and would feel so weak I would have to set it down before I felt like I could lift it to the shelf. In this condition, of course, to do even my housework was a task almost impossible to accomplish.

"I was . . . nervous and easily upset.

I couldn't rest well at night and was . . . just lifeless.

"I heard of Cardui and after reading I decided I had some female trouble that was pulling me down. I sent for Cardui and began it. . . .

"In a very short while after I began the Cardui Home Treatment I saw an improvement and it wasn't long until I was all right—good appetite, splendid rest, and much stronger so that I easily did my house work.

"Later I took a bottle of Cardui as a tonic. I can recommend Cardui and gladly do so, for if more women knew, it would save a great deal of worry and sickness."

The enthusiastic praise of thousands of other women who have found Cardui helpful should convince you that it is worth trying. All druggists sell it.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

A life spent in brushing clothes and washing crockery and sweeping floors, a life which the proud of earth would have treated as the dust under their feet; a life spent at a clerk's desk, a life spent in a narrow shop, a life spent in the laborer's hut, may yet be a life so ennobled by God's loving mercy that for the sake of it a king might gladly yield his crown.—Canon Farrar.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

ANYONE who can get to the fields to gather the delicious field mushroom, has a luxury for which the wealthy pay a high price. If one learns a few varieties of the common mushroom and adheres strictly to that knowledge, never risking a doubtful one, there will be many delightful dishes which the family may enjoy, free of expense. Pounds of this wholesome food goes to waste each year because people either lack the knowledge of preparing and cooking it or pass it by without a look. The simplest method of preparation is to peel the caps, cut up both stems and caps and saute in a little butter; when thoroughly cooked, add cream and serve on toast or as any creamed vegetable.

Smothered Calf's Liver.

Make 12 incisions in the upper surface of the liver with a sharp knife, having the cuts parallel. Insert bits of bacon in the cuts, sprinkle with salt, celery salt and dredge with flour; put three thin slices of bacon in a hot frying pan, put in the liver and brown the surface, turning frequently. Remove to a casserole, add five slices of carrot, half an onion, two sprigs of parsley, 12 peppercorns, two cloves and two cupsful of boiling water. Cover closely and cook in a moderate oven an hour and a quarter, basting every 15 minutes. Remove the liver to a hot platter, reduce the liquid to one-half and strain over the meat. Surround with canned or freshly cooked string beans well seasoned with butter, pepper and a dash of vinegar and salt.

TRADE SCHOOLS.

LET your slogan be better and more trade schools for girls. There are far more trade schools for young men than for young women, yet it is becoming almost as usual for the girls of the family to earn their living as for the boys. Very few girls nowadays are satisfied with staying at home and going into society. They want to work at something; they want their independence. And they deserve training and proper opportunity.

Many women in the smaller towns are eager for training that will fit them to earn a living, and they cannot get it. This is all wrong, and it is up to us to get our schools. One girl I know wanted a course in photography, for which she had a strong leaning. She had to travel hundreds of miles and spend much money to get it. She could afford to do so and she has now a good business back in the town from which she started. What is more, she is conducting a class in her specialty. But she believes that it would pay her town to run a vocational school for girls that would teach photography as well as many other vocations. And she is working for such a school.

It is a pity to force so many girls into the weary road of stenography simply because it is so often impossible to get the needed training in the hundreds of other vocations open to them. Let every town insist on its trade school. It will pay for itself a thousand times over.

THE WOODS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH.

INSPIRATION.

A POET sang of human things,
Of gorgeous queens and mighty kings,
And gems that glisten:
He praised the brassy front of show,
The ruby's fire and diamond's glow,
Yet none would listen.

He wove him many labored rimes
Of ended days and coming times,
Of deeds that stirred him;
He wrote of pomp and circumstance,
The flap of flag, the light of lance,
But no one heard him.

And thus he learned to know the pain
Of him who sings but sings in vain
To ears averted,
Like one who wakes his sweetest tone
To unresponsive walls of stone
In halls deserted.

When all the merry melodies
He sang his fellow men to please
Brought none to hear him,
He turned from splendor and from pelf
To sing a measure for himself,
A song to cheer him.

He wrote a song of long ago—
A vale where yellow lilies grow
Beside a river,
A path that leads the weary feet
Where meadowland and waters meet
And rushes quiver.

He wrote a song of childhood days,
Of pleasant shade and wooded ways
And summer quiet—
A bridge that spanned a gushing rill,
A humble cot upon a hill,
With roses by it.

'Twas not the creature of his art,
This song unpulling from his heart
In moments lonely;
With memory his eyes grew dim,
For then his own soul sang to him,
The poet only.

But other mortals heard his tale
Of woodland path and verdant vale
To heaven vinging,
And men who scorned his song before
Sought out the poet's open door
To hear him singing.

Thus came to him his mistress Fame,
Clad in her aureole of flame
And smile supernal;
No more a fleeting vision now,
She placed upon the singer's brow
The kiss eternal.

And then the poet, fool and sage,
Turned gently from his written page,
While bravos thundered,
And, when he saw the listening throng
Of those who once had spurned his song,
He greatly wondered.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"POLTROON."

AT THE time of the drafts during the Civil war and the World war there were a few men who attempted to avoid compulsory military service by cutting off their trigger or first finger, arguing that this would prevent their being mustered into the army. On no less an authority than Archbishop Trench, a deep student of English, we find that a similar practice was responsible for the introduction into the language of the word "poltroon" as a synonym for arant coward.

"In olden times," states the archbishop, "a self-mutilation of this description was not infrequent on the part of some cowardly shirking fellow who wished to escape his share in the defense of his country. He would cut off his right thumb, become incapable of drawing a bow and thus useless for the wars. It was not to be wondered at that Englishmen should have looked with extreme disdain upon one who had so basely exempted himself from service nor that the Latin phrase 'pollice truncus'—'one deprived of his thumb,' later shortened to the two-syllabled 'poltroon,' should afterward have become a name of scorn affixed to every base and cowardly evader of the duties and dangers of life."

Liberty Bonds at Par.

The discussion in the financial journals of projects for restoring the value of Liberty bonds to par continues, and various suggestions are made to that end. The latest is that the Federal government take steps to call in all the issues of Liberty and Victory bonds, and issue bonds in lieu thereof, these bonds to bear no fixed rate of interest, but with the Secretary of the Treasury to possess power to pay such semi-annual interest as may keep the bonds at par.

The suggestion is without merit, and the whole agitation should be abandoned. It is true that Liberty bonds are selling below par, but the decline in other securities. If a man had put his money into railroad or industrial stock, or into bonds at the time he bought Liberty bonds he would face a larger paper loss than he does with the government issues. The whole security market is depressed; some day it will go up, and, when it goes up, Liberty bonds will go to par and above.

We are told that the government "owes" it to the men and women who bought Liberty bonds at par to see to it that those bonds always command that price on the open market. But there is nothing in this. The people of this country loaned their money to their government in time of war, partly for patriotic motives and partly because they were told the investment was a safe one. And it has been proven safe. Of course the values of such securities rise and fall, but the outstanding fact is that prices of Liberty bonds have fallen, in this era of falling prices, less than have other securities.—Louisville Post.

No cry of "hard luck" can be raised over the failure of Ralph De Palma to finish the ninth international sweepstakes run over the Indianapolis speedway on Memorial Day. The popular driver had a choice of making a pace at the average for the track so as to save his car and try for the $20,000 first prize, or, secure in the knowledge that he had the fastest car on the track, go after the $15,000 lap prizes. He decided upon the latter course, and sent his Goodyear equipped Ballot around the brick oval at an unheard-of average speed of 93.66 miles per hour at the end of 225 miles. He earned $10,650 in lap prizes—equivalent to second prize—before his car went out on the 280th mile because of a broken crankshaft.

COMMITTEEMEN MEETS.

The Democratic Committeemen of Adair county met in the Paramount Theater last Monday afternoon, and organized by electing J. R. Garnett, Chairman, and Mrs. A. H. Ballard Vice Chairman, and Miss Estelle Willis Secretary. A resolution was unanimously adopted that the Democrats of Adair county meet in mass Convention in Columbia, at the Picture Show Hall on Saturday, June 25, 1921, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of discussing and determining whether or not the Democratic party of said county will have a ticket or a partial ticket for county offices, to be voted for at the coming November election.

It is hoped that Democrats throughout the county will attend the convention.

AS EDITOR THOMAS SEES IT

We have no vote in the contest for Circuit Judge in this district, but hundreds of our readers are interested, and for their benefit we copy the following editorial from the last issue of The Casey County News:

"The office of Circuit Judge is one of the highest in importance to the people and the state and there is but few lawyers in this district who are legally qualified to fill the office. We believe and have heard many citizens of this county and other counties express themselves about fitness of Judge J. C. Carter, of Tompkinsville, for this office. We have tried him and he has made good and in this day and time when the wave of crime is sweeping over the world we need more than ever a capable and competent man for the office of Circuit Judge, therefore we wish to endorse the candidacy of Judge Carter. We do not take this stand merely from a political standpoint, although Mr. Carter is of the same party, but because we believe he is competent to fill the office and will give each and every one a fair and square deal.

"The people should not conclude that any man can fill the office because he has a license to practice law, but he needs more. While Judge Carter's candidacy comes from the people, that of his opponent from behind closed doors. While Mr. Lawrence has license to practice law and may be honest, but he is far from being qualified for Judge of the Circuit Court, as all who heard him when he made his announcement here a few days ago. Many were disgusted with his speech and if he had any supporters before his speech he lost them during his attempted summer-saulting.

will get 100 votes in Casey county and yet we do not know a single man or woman for him in the county. We are not asking our readers to take our word for this; ask any reliable man or woman in the county."

There is but little going on in Congress, and what is in progress, broods no good to the country.

All voters who are identified with the Democratic party are urged to be in Columbia next Saturday.

All the Democrats of Adair county, men and women, are urged to be in Columbia next Saturday. A conference will be held, looking to the interest of the party.

The Reed oil Syndicate, of this place, was very much gratified last Friday morning when a message came announcing that the well they started two weeks ago, in Clinton county, just over the Russell line, what is known as the Creelsboro Field, had come in, and that there was undisputable evidence of an abundance of oil. It is hoped by all Columbia that it will prove a lasting and paying producer.

Maj. J. M. Womack, an ex-Confederate, who for years was prominent in the affairs of Louisville, Secretary to Chas. D. Jacob when the latter was Mayor of the city, died at the age of 76 at the Deaconess Hospital last Tuesday. He was a native of New Orleans, and was in college when the war between the States broke out, and he left the institution to enter the Confederate army.

The Casey County News says that the special reporter to the Columbia Republican did not tell the people that the entire crowd who heard the speaking at the opening of the Casey Circuit court, was for Judge Carter. The same paper also says that Mr. Lawrence will not receive 100 votes in Casey county, and that he, the editor, does not, of his personal knowledge, know a vote in Casey county against Judge Carter.

Sixteen armed bandits are fixed for taking some warm drinks. Last Tuesday night within three miles of Covington, they seized a truck load of whisky totalling 500 cases and valued at $45,000. At boot legging prices it will bring $100,000. The liquor was en route from Labot & Graham's distillery Frankfort to New York. The stealing of whisky has become too common. There is a negro in the wookpile.

As the primary approaches the canvass grows more warmer. It is impossible to form a correct idea by talking to candidates as to how the canvass will end; that is who will be the winners. We have talked with most of the aspirants, and each one claimed that he was certain to be nominated. Some have said "I have got the race won, but I will continue to fight until the polls close the first Saturday in August." While the candidates are enthusiastic, the voters are not giving their mouths, hence it is hard to tell who will pull under the string first.

Outside of a few men in this Judicial district who have been prosecuted by Mr. Huddleston for their misdeeds, the five counties comprising the district will vote almost solidly for him. Mr. Huddleston is making no effort to carry Monroe county, where Mr. Smith resides, but he will get a respectable vote in that county. Adair, Casey, Cumberland and Russell will show their appreciation of Mr. Huddleston as State's Attorney, and will overwhelmingly nominate him. This statement is made on information gathered from voters in all the counties.

Farmers complain of hard times and ask when will there be a change for the better. In our judgment until peace has been declared, the ports opened, there will be no better times. The present administration has been in power for about four months, and not a thing done to better conditions. So the honest farmer will have to keep digging, get but little for his labor, and continue to pay high taxes. It is distressing that the country will have to worry along for three and a half years before there is a change in the administration.

Judge J. C. Carter, on his return from the Liberty Court, dropped in the News office, spending a few minutes. He stated that the canvass for Circuit Judge in this district was on; that he could not do his duty as a Judge, leave his courts and make a canvass of the five counties comprising the district; that business was on the dockets in all the counties, and that it was his duty to conduct his courts, and that he intended to do so. He further stated that in going from county to county, conducting his courts, he would speak on the first day of each term. He was of the opinion that the voters of the district knew him and his record well enough to support him for re-election, and that he had no fears but he would carry every county in the district.

Notwithstanding he has been denounced by a large majority of the newspapers of the United States, Republican and Democratic, and also by the war mothers and doughboy organizations, Ambassador Harvey has not been rebuked nor recalled for his Pilgram's Society Dinner speech. About as severe a criticism of that speech Mr. Harvey made himself the day following President Wilson's War message in 1917. Mr. Harvey sent President Wilson a telegram which read as follows: "A great message of patriotism, evidencing masterful leadership based upon mutual faith of the President in his country and of the country in its President. I was confident as one could be, but even so I was not prepared for so splendid a realization. For the nation it is glorious, for patriots inspiring for the President noble."

Gilbert Decries Harding Tactics.

Washington, June 13.—In his first speech on the floor of the House today, Representative Ralph Gilbert, Eighth Kentucky District, Democrat, attacked the Porter peace resolution as a "legislative abortion to relieve the Republican Administration of its own folly."

Referring to President Harding's attitude on the peace situation he said:

"I have known men able to escape taking any side, but he is the only man I have ever known with such transcendent ability as to be considered the champion of every side.

"It would be refreshing to the entire country to be able to agree as to where he stands on some one question."

The Congressional election in the Eighth Kentucky District last fall was fought out on a straight question on the peace resolution or the League of Nations, Mr. Gilbert asserted.

"It is true that President Harding received a large majority in the country at large," he said, "but he did so by using the same kind of tactics being played now and because he received the votes of those like Charles Evans Hughes, who believed his election would be the surest way of entering the league, as well as of those like Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who believed his election would be the surest way of staying out."

OIL AND GAS

Adair, Cumberland, Russell
Counties, Kentucky.

BY E. T. KEMPER.

Mr. E. J. Schabelitz, with headquarters at Burkesville, who is one of the liveliest operators in the Cumberland river section, was here a few days since, returning from Lexington and Pittsburg, where he had been on a short business trip. Mr. Schabelitz is always on the "go," and he is very optimistic regarding the outlook for Cumberland county proving to be a great oil section.

If the Irvine, Ky., parties who are drilling on the Walter Armstrong farm, Creelsboro, fail to make a "strike" it will not be in keeping with the general rule applying to such locations. They are about as close to a school-house as it is safe to drill, and it nearly always follows that such locations are productive of good wells.

Operators and others interested in the oil business from different sections of Ohio, particularly Cincinnati and Cleveland, are showing a great deal of interest at present in the securing of acreage in this territory. Some are already drilling and others are making preparations to begin operations at an early date.

The last two wells completed in the Creelsboro field, Day Oil Company No. 2 on the Granville Williams farm, and Riddle & Company No. 1 on the farm of Hadley heirs, have been flowing for several days past, and they both give promise of being fine producers. These wells are located on adjoining farms and within a short distance of each other.

Among the prominent oil men registered here within the past few days are:

Mr. Chas. J. Pogue, Birmingham, Ala., Vice President and manager Old English-American Oil Company now operating in the Creelsboro field.

Mr. C. L. Bell, Lexington, Ky., president and manager of the Day Oil Company, drilling at Creelsboro.

Mr. L. W. Dale, Blackwell, Oklahoma, drilling in Bakerton-Brush Creek field.

Mr. Jo Davidson, St. Mary's Ohio, field manager for the J. E. Carnahan Oil Company, Creelsboro.

Messrs. W. S. and Ed Raydure, Bowling Green, Ohio, prominently identified with some of the big operations of the State.

Mr. D. T. Reasonover, Covington, Ky., manager of the Alpha Drilling Company, drilling for the Day Oil Company at Creelsboro.

Mr. John C. Miller, Lexington, Ky., representing the Pure Oil Company.

A visit to the Creelsboro field at present will convince anyone that it is fast becoming a real oil field. With a number of rigs pounding away, pumps running and a refinery in operation, it gives the visitor the impression that "something is going on" there. The following operations are in full swing in the field:

Wood Oil Company, farm of Cummings Brothers; Day Oil Company, farm of Granville Williams; Dr. E. E. Edwards and associates, Irvine, Ky., farm of Walter Armstrong; Riddle & Company, Ohio, farm of Hadley heirs; Reed Oil Company, farm of Campbell Brothers; Old English-American Oil Company Birmingham, Ala., farm of J. S. Williams; Wood Oil Company, farm of John Oliver; Kentucky Coal & Mining Company, Beaver, Pa., farm of Hiram Irvine. Also, a rig of the former Bagdad Oil Corporation, now on the Hiram Campbell farm, to be taken over by other parties and moved to another location soon.

Another fine well was drilled in Friday morning on the farm of Charlie and John Campbell, Creelsboro, by Mr. O. C. Fink, drilling for a Columbia Syndicate managed by Mr. Robert Reed, and composed of a number of the most prominent citizens of the town and vicinity. "Pay" was struck at a depth of 355 feet, and an unusually fine grade of oil is flowing from the well. No estimate can be placed upon its capacity, but that it will prove a great producer. The new well is located three-quarters of a mile south of the famous old Gabbert well, drilled in the sixties, and one-half mile from the three fine wells recently brought in on the Williams and Hadley farms. Location has been made on the same farm for well No. 2, which will be drilled without delay.

Mr. W. S. Raydure, Bowling Green, Ohio, one of the large operators of the country, who was here during the past week on a tour of inspection of this territory, had the misfortune to get his left shoulder dislocated by a fall at Burkesville. The accident caused him to return home much sooner than he had expected, but before leaving he expressed himself regarding this territory to the effect that he noted some of the finest structure in the country around Columbia, and that it ought to be productive oil territory.

Mr. Henry L. Doherty, president of the Cities Service Company, New York, one of the largest oil producing companies in the world, in an open letter during the past week makes the statement that despite the present depressed and demoralized condition of the oil industry, which he believes is but a passing phase in the history of this great industry, that it will be succeeded by an era in which the great oil producing corporations of the United States will see the greatest prosperity in their history.

The present unusually low prices prevailing on the different grades of crude oil are attributed by some to be caused entirely by what is termed overproduction, or, to be more explicit, the demand is not in keeping with production. On the face of it this is a plausible excuse, but whenever the business readjustment now in progress all over the country is completed, and the wheels of industry begin to turn in a normal way, the present stocks of oil will diminish very rapidly, and production will not be adequate to supply the demand. This cannot help but result in one thing, and that is there will surely be a rapid upward tendency in the prices of crude. Under normal conditions the United States has not been producing enough oil to supply domestic needs, to say nothing of an ever increasing foreign demand, and we have been forced to look elsewhere, particularly to Mexico, for relief, but recent reports from the latter country regarding the oil situation there state that the supply is rapidly being depleted by the great wells of that section either going dry or else are being ruined by salt water. The statement comes from reliable authority that in the forty square mile producing area of Mexico, sixty-three, or two-thirds, of the one hundred and four wells have ceased to produce, and salt water is rapidly filling those now in operation. It is also stated that not a new oil structure has been discovered in Mexico since 1916, and the proven territory is in fact going into salt water. Another important factor in the Mexican situation is that British owned companies, the largest producers and sellers, control some of the best developed territory, and they are responding to the Mexican political demands to the detriment of Americans. Such conditions can not fail to be helpful to the oil business in the United States, and better prices will surely prevail in this country, and at no distant date.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the list price of all types of Ford Cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices f. o. b. Detroit, are now as follows:

Touring Car	$ 415.00
Runabout	370.00
Coupe	695.00
Sedan	760.00
Chassis	345.00
Truck Chassis	495.00
Tractor	625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May 1921 was greater by 56,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920; in fact the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone—the biggest month in the history of our company—and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 4,000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than cost to produce account of the recent big price reduction, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor.

"Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Ford cars are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck or Fordson tractor.

"We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

Work Required to Rid Farm of Weeds.

There is no short cut to weed prevention or extermination, both hard work and system being required, according to E. C. Vaughn, a member of the Botany Department of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, who has estimated that there are more than 125 varieties of weeds in Kentucky which should be destroyed. An occasional crusade will give only temporary relief but a systematic campaign lasting through every month and every year will succeed with less expense in the long run.

Bearing in mind the fact that prevention is better than cure, the farmer should be very careful in the purchase of seeds and should make an earnest attempt to get those that are free from noxious weed seeds, even though the cost may be much greater. In case of doubt as to purity samples should be sent to the Experiment Station for analysis, and judgment should be based, not on the per cent of pure seeds but on the per cent and character of weed seeds contained in the sample.

Care should be taken to prevent the introduction of objectionable seeds by threshing machines, clover hullers, used grain bags and screenings. All implements and machinery that could possibly carry seeds should be carefully cleaned before moved from one farm to another. Screenings containing weed seeds should be boiled if used for feed or burned if useless.

Weeds should not be allowed to ripen on the farm. Some, such as amaranth, have inconspicuous flowers and produce seeds before their presence is suspected. For this season weeds should be cut as soon as possible after their appearance.

Some weeds may be crowded out by quick-growing, thickly seeded crops especially if the soil is kept in good condition. Most of them may be held in check by a good rotation including one closely cultivated crop every three or four years.

Land should not be permitted to be idle, but some useful crop should be kept growing whenever possible. The task is not ended with harvest, for some weeds mature later in the fall and the seeds scattered about in various ways, produce weeds the next spring.

It will be found profitable, from the standpoint of weed prevention alone to keep some sheep. These animals are useful in the advantage of being profitable in other ways.

Floods and Disasters.

The loss of five hundred lives and the destruction of ten million dollars worth of property in Colorado by floods the past week recall former disasters which shocked the world in the number of lives lost. The Johnstown flood in Pennsylvania cost about 2,500 lives in 1889. Galveston lost 3,000 citizens and suffered damage of $20,000,000 by a hurricane and tidal flood in 1900. The Iroquois Theatre fire at Chicago in 1903 cost 575 lives. Fourteen hundred persons lost their lives in the burning of the East River, New York, in 1904. Three hundred and fifty million dollars damage was done and 452 lives lost in the San Francisco earthquake of 1906. The sinking of the Titanic on her maiden trip in mid-ocean in 1912 cost 1,517 lives. In 1914 the Empress of Ireland sank in the St. Lawrence river and carried with her to watery grave 1,024 men, women and children. In the torpedoing of the Lusitania by the Germans in 1915, among the 1,198 who drowned were many American women and children and when, in the same year, the steamer Eastland overturned at her pier in Chicago 812 were drowned.

These disasters, serious as they were, were comparatively trifling beside the eruption of Mt. Pelee in 1902, in which 30,000 persons were killed; the earthquake in Sicily and Calabria, Italy, in 1908, when 76,483 persons lost their lives, and the earthquakes in Central Italy in 1915, when 29,978 men, women and children, were unaccounted for when the searchers and rescuers had finished their work.

Good Tires.

Jean Chassagne, driver of one of the two Peugeot entries representing France in the Indianapolis race on Memorial Day, was the unlucky man who was followed by a jinx, being eliminated from the running by one of the most peculiar accidents ever recorded.

On the 150th mile, terrific wind pressure tore the cars hood from its fastenings. To run that way is a violation of the rules, so Chassagne was notified that he would have to replace the hood or get out. The nervy Frenchman set out at touring speed to find the missing part. He and his mechanic scanned the grassy infield for a complete circuit—but no hood was to be found. A second circuit was made with frequent stops so that the grass might be searched—but the hood had vanished into thin air.

With a smile of resignation, the man who had traveled all the way from France to race, shrugged his shoulders in true Gallic nonchalance—and drove a hoodless but sweetly running car to the pits; utterly out of the running.

People often make light of "star gazers," but if it were not for some of them we wouldn't know about astronomy.

Corinne Griffith

As an actress Corinne Griffith has reached the pinnacle. She is known for her unusual facial expressions and dramatic skill and as a "movie" star she is a strong favorite. Miss Griffith is often referred to as "the best dressed woman on the screen."

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel.

SOPHIA.

THE wisest of feminine names is Sophy, or Sophia, as she should be called properly. It is perhaps the only name which is closely associated with Divine attributes, since its origin dates back to the dedication of that most gorgeous of Christian temples by which Justinian declared that he had surpassed Solomon. It was called St. Sophia (the holy wisdom of God).

According to the "Preacher" in the Book of Ecclesiasticus, Wisdom is the mother of fair Love, Hope and holy Fear, and this idea is said to have suggested the allegory of the holy woman with three daughters so called, and in compliment to the newly built church, the niece of Justinian's empress, afterward wife of his nephew and successor, was called Sophia. The name straightway became fashionable among the daughters of the nobility of Greece and was carried, through Slavonians, to Germany.

History records a Hungarian princess of that name in 919, and another, daughter of King Geysa, married Magnus of Saxony and spread the use of the name throughout Saxony. Denmark is said to have received it through this latter princess and has since made it almost a national name. Its vogue with the royalty of Denmark is unmistakable and its use spread through all classes.

England barely escaped having a Queen Sophia and even though Sophia Dorothea of Yette never actually ascended the throne of England, her granddaughters gave it vogue in the British Isles in the reign of the House of Hanover.

England claimed both Sophia and Sophy. France makes her Sophie; Italy Sofia, Germany Sophia and Fieka, and Russia Sofija. Sophia has an old talismanic stone—malachite. It protects its wearer from danger, if it is engraved with an image of the sun. It is particularly potent for children and is said to ward off disease and promote peaceful slumber if attached to a child's cradle. Saturday is Sophia's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

Our Nation's Wealth.

The world's debt to the U. S. is estimated by Secretary of Treasury Mellon as follows:

Approximately $10,000,000 advanced as war loans; this is due the U. S., chiefly advanced as war loans.

Three billion dollars due to the American investors in bonds of foreign Governments and in stock of foreign corporations.

This amount is increasing daily it is said at the rate of about $10,000,000 interest. Prompt payment of interest would give the U. S. Government and citizen approximately $1,000,000,000 a year or an amount equal to one quarter of the total estimated expenditures of the Government for three years.

Gold within the boundaries of the United States is said to total $3,001,000,000.

Nobody likes to listen to a tale of woe—unless it is his own.

War Mothers Denounce Harvey.

Senator McKellar read into the Record the following protest from American War Mothers:

"Whereas the Senate of the United States of America, on April 2, 1917, declared that we were in a state war;

"Whereas we believed that it was through no fear of loss, no greed for gain, but for a great idea, for the saving of the nations and the freedom of the world, that we submitted to the sacrifice of our sons and countrymen:

"Therefore we, the Pennsylvania State Chapter of the National American War Mothers, assembled in convention in Philadelphia, declare we have read with the utmost abhorrence the words reported to have been spoken by George Harvey, ambassador to England. Those words are an insult to everything the women of America hold dear.

"They defame every man and woman who made sacrifices during the war in the hope of hastening the coming of peace and all it implies.

"Our beloved sons—soldiers, sailors and marines—fought, suffered, and died believing they were crusaders in a great cause. The words of Mr. Harvey lead us to believe that they fought in vain.

"Our dead soldiers can not repudiate this insult; it remains for the mothers whose sons made the sacrifice to do so.

"Therefore we, the mothers of sons who were in the army and navy, ask the President of the United States to repudiate this insult to the country and to remove the stain which the words of Mr. Harvey have placed upon the honored dead of the World War, who died for the ideals of the United States of America."

Another protest from the women is as follows:

The Women's Pro-League Council, composed of Republican women, at a meeting on May 25, directed that—

"A solemn protest against such statements and such policies contained in Ambassador Harvey's speech be sent immediately to the President and the Secretary of State, as a gross misrepresentation of America's war aims and ideals, and a betrayal of millions of American voters for whom the League of Nations... was the great issue of the campaign, and who voted for Mr. Harding in the belief that his election would assure such a league."

The Poland China Queen of The Ozarks.

Can a woman raise prize pigs? A visit to the stock farm of Miss Frances Braughton near Cuba, Mo., will answer this question to the satisfaction of the most expert live stockman in the country. Down there in that Ozark country where pigs and mules have been produced by the thousands, the mere men engaged in the business knew that a woman can raise stock and just now there is many a worry lest, this strip of a girl carry away all the blue ribbons and prize money at the county and state fairs in that section.

Miss Braughton possesses unusual accomplishments. She is highly educated and rather of the drawing-room type. But she knows and loves a good hog. Her judgment is unfailing, her courage without limit and when she bids on an animal at a sale, the men know that she will go the limit. Many sales in that section of the country have had added interest this spring by her strong bidding. She is not a bargain hunter, but you can't sell her a pig under grade, because she knows every requirement for a perfect type.

Some months ago upon her return from school she startled the community by announcing that she was going into the Poland China business. Hardly had the shock of this announcement subsided when she began to buy good stock at public and private sales. Her father's farm is a model and her work has developed it into one of the big show places of the Southwest.

"I will build up a herd second to none" said Miss Braughton. "I will have nothing but the best, I selected Poland China Hogs because of the big rewards offered. I will have the best of my stock on exhibit at all the nearby fairs this fall."

Miss Braughton is not alone among women who have entered the Poland China field. Mrs. Majorie Johnson, of Muncie, has added Poland China to her big stock farm and will be a contender in the Indiana Fair this fall. Nettie E. Andrews Modesto, California, has entered her herd in the big California Futurity show against fifty other entries. Mrs. W. F. Selby, Maquon, Illinois, is a contender with nearly 100 breeders for first honors in that state and Elizabeth J. Crase, of Brookings, South Dakota, who has won many prizes, will be one of the most formidable contenders at the state fair this year.

According to the records of the Poland China Breed Promotion Committee, nearly 1,000 girls in the country are contesting in pig clubs this year and reports from county agricultural societies show that more than 5,000 girls are members of pig and calf clubs of all breeds.

If you are septic about whether a woman can raise stock, consult the prize awards made this fall and be convinced.

Bankers Indorse Sapiro.

Group four of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, in session last week at Elizabethtown, indorsed by a unanimous vote the co-operative marketing system for burley tobacco, and pledged "its hearty support and assistance," in carrying the plan to growers.

This action was taken after an address by Aaron Sapiro before the meeting of more than 300 bankers and growers from the Fourth Congressional District. The men and women in the audience heard the California expert with interest, evidenced by frequent applause. The resolutions adopted are as follows:

"Be it resolved by the Fourth Group of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, that, as it is the opinion of this group that the co-operative plan of marketing Burley tobacco, as outlined by Mr. Sapiro, is feasible and well adapted to the needs of Kentucky and adjacent States, this group hereby indorses the plan and pledges its hearty support and assistance in presenting it to tobacco growers of Kentucky."

The resolutions declare that the association will be of great benefit to the growers, whose interest are our own."

A number of representatives from the banks of this county were present at the meeting.

That which is forbidden is often the first done.

The Proofreader.

How often mistakes appear in print it is hard to say. It is conceded, however, that mistakes are easily made and are frequently overlooked. The editor of a certain religious paper, after explaining a typographical error which appeared in a preceding issue, remarks: "However, there is some consolation in the thought that it might have been worse. 'No cross, no crown,' was once converted by an intelligent compositor to 'No caws, no cream.'"

A poet's fine fancy, "He kissed her under the stellar skies," appeared in a certain paper: "He kicked her under the cellar stair."

Yes indeed—a slight mistake might have been worse. Overlook ours, please.

First Girl Ever Photographed.

While France claims to have invented photography through the genius of Daguerre, the painter, America is proud of the fact that it was one of her sons who photographed the first face.

After years of patient labor Daguerre succeeded in taking sunlight pictures of scenery on a sensitive plate.

This was in 1829, and a year later Prof. John W. Draper of New York took a photograph of his sister the first person to have her likeness reproduced on a prepared back-ground with the help of the sun's rays.

It took an hour to take the photograph, and the picture may still be seen.

Old Word Dismissed.

"In the future we will have no such thing as war.

"No," agreed the grim scientist. "If my present experiments in lethal devices meet my hopes, we'll have something very much worse."

A lengthy cablegram to the Chicago Tribune describes the use that is made of oil as a substitute for coal during the coal strike in England, the writer venturing the prediction that oil will break the coal strike. Many of the trains are now using oil, and oil is being introduced in the factories in such a fashion as to make some believe that there will be considerably less demand for coal after the miners go back to work. The miners' strike was most unwise, no matter from what point it is examined. The miners are almost certain to lose and the whole coal industry stands to lose. Of course the use of oil will send oil prices up, and, in the long run, British coal will come into its own again, but probably at substantially lower prices.
